Subject:

PwrBlade® Contacts will move to Performance Based Plating

Nature of Change:

With the continual escalation of gold and other precious metals, FCI will move to Performance Based Plating while continuing to meet the existing PwrBlade® product specification. This important move gives FCI the option to supply PwrBlade® products with either gold based plating or FCI's GXT™ palladium nickel alloy with gold flash plating on the contacts. The end result allows FCI to maintain competitive pricing on PwrBlade connectors with no change in performance.

In addition to the PwrBlade product family moving to performance based plating, FCI is adding a small crown or coin to the leading edge of the power contacts in the plug connectors to better insure that the connectors mate optimally in the center of the contact. The enhancement will eliminate any chance that the connector's mating interface could occur at the edge of the power contact. This change will further insure that the same high performance that the PwrBlade® connector family has historically provided will continue into the future. FCI customer prints are being updated to reflect Performance Based Plating rather than a plating type. FCI developed GXT in the 1980's and has used the plating on numerous connector families for over 25 years. Both gold and GXT plating variations have been fully tested to meet identical requirements. The product specification file is attached.

Implementation Date:

FCI may begin shipping product with the GXT plated contacts on May. 19th, 2008. Please note that either gold based or GXT based contact products may ship depending upon price fluctuations in the precious metal markets from this date onwards.

Affected Part Numbers:

See list attached, the affected P/Ns including, but not limited to these P/Ns in attached list with current marking, may including any more P/Ns that are to be active after release of this PCN.
