|-------------------------------------|
| General Product Description: |
| DEUTSCH DRC and AEC series |

| |
|--|
| Description of Changes |
| Material Change. The Industrial & Commercial Transportation (ICT) business unit of TE Connectivity (TEC) intends to implement a material change on an internal component, terminal retention retainer in DRC and AEC series connectors. The current material is unfilled PEI and the new material will be PA46 30GF glass filled. PPAP package will be offered by customer request once a sufficient inventory bank is built to prevent any delay. Product drawings are not affected. Note: This PCN supersedes PCN E-16-009586. |
| Terminal Retaining Inserts |

| |
|--|
| Reason for Changes: |
| Product improvement. Dear Customer, we inform you of this material change as part of our aggressive continuous improvement efforts. PEI is a single source material with global demand in excess of supply. The material supplier is restricting all consumers buying allotment. The allotted level to TEC is at a level where product production is impacted. The change will be managed by TEC TS16949 quality procedures. The change does not affect the fit, form and function. The change has been validated with manufacturing and laboratory testing. The terminal retention retainers manufactured from the new material have the same performance of the current material. An | internal release based on our specifications will be executed before any parts are delivered. Product drawings are not affected. IMPORTANT: Both revisions of these parts can be used interchangeably in the field. This change is being phased-in gradually and the previous revision can remain stocked until use.
